1.2.1 Competitions and awards

As part of the main festival programme, IFFR presents curated competition programmes to promote talented filmmakers: Tiger Competition (for feature-length films), Ammodo Tiger Short Competition (for short & mid-length films) and Big Screen Competition (for feature-length films, award sponsored by Dutch public broadcaster VPRO).

Tiger Competition

Eligible for Tiger Competition are directors of a 1st, 2nd, or 3rd feature-length film, that are presented in world premiere at IFFR or, in consultation with the festival, in international or European premiere after no more than one festival event or territorial release between September 2023 and January 2024. An international jury will select a winner, from up to sixteen nominees, who receives an award and €40,000 to be shared between the film's director and producer. In addition, within the Tiger Competition, the jury bestows two Special Jury Awards for exceptional artistic achievement, each worth €10,000.

Ammodo Tiger Short Competition

Eligible for Ammodo Tiger Short Competition are directors with a short film less than 64 minutes long. The film should have its world premiere in Rotterdam. During the festival, an international jury selects three winners, who will each receive an award and €5,000.

Big Screen Competition (VPRO Big Screen Award)

Big Screen Competition comprises up to sixteen selected films having their world premiere at IFFR. Exceptions may be made, at IFFR's discretion, for films with an international or European premiere after no more than one festival event or territorial release in the five months leading up to the festival.

The nominated films will be judged by a jury of five enthusiastic festival audience members. The winning film will be released theatrically in the Netherlands and broadcast on television in the Netherlands. The VPRO Big Screen Award is worth a total of €30,000. Half of this amount is for the filmmaker; the other half is to be spent on the Dutch theatrical release by the Dutch distributor.

IFFR Audience Award

All feature length films that have had their first public screening after 1 January the year prior to the festival are eligible for the Audience Award, chosen by the festival's audience through online voting. The prize comprises €10,000.

Other Awards

Other awards presented in the context of IFFR may include, but are not necessarily limited to, FIPRESCI Award, KNF Award, IFFR Youth Jury Award.

PART 2 - SUBMISSIONS

Submissions to IFFR are open to feature films, creative documentaries, experimental films, short films, and innovative visual productions for digital media. Please take note of all eligibility criteria in the Terms and Conditions before submitting your work.

Participation in International Film Festival Rotterdam—by submitting the work and/or accepting IFFR's invitation – means the acceptance of IFFR's Terms and Conditions by the filmmaker(s), producer(s) and rights holder(s).

The film should be submitted online through the IFFR entry form in your personal Account.

2.1 Eligibility criteria

Submissions to the festival are open to feature films, creative documentaries, experimental films, short and mid-length films, and innovative visual productions for digital media.

The following eligibility criteria must be taken into account when submitting a film to the festival:

1. All submitted films should be completed after 1 January of the calendar year prior to the festival. For IFFR 2024, this means the film should be completed after 1 January 2023.
2. Films previously submitted to the festival and not selected, will not be reconsidered for the 2024 festival.
3. Films that have already screened in the Netherlands are excluded from submission to the festival.
4. IFFR only accepts short and mid-length films with a world, international or European premiere status. This also counts for short and mid-length films from the Netherlands.
5. Student films, with the exception of post-graduate works, are excluded from submission to the festival.

6. IFFR considers work-in-progress submissions, provided that the film can be finished in time for the festival. IFFR is not obliged to take into consideration new versions of the same submission.

The following conditions apply in case of digital festival screenings prior to IFFR:

- If the film has been screened with geo-block, IFFR's standard premiere status rules apply.
- If the film has been screened without geo-block and was available worldwide, a maximum of 1500 views in total is allowed in order for the film to be eligible for IFFR selection.

In both cases, the film may only have been available online for a maximum of 20 days.

If the film does not comply with the eligibility criteria, it will not be taken into consideration for selection. The Terms and Conditions should be read and subsequently confirmed by the applicant before finalising the submission. IFFR does not issue refunds on grounds of ineligibility.
